

CONTENTS

I Articles

- (1) The Rise of “Education” within Early Meiji Civil Government Reform:
Oki Takato and Education System Order of 1872
YUKAWA Fumihiko
- (2) The Development of “Love of Nature” Discourse in Modern Geography Education in Japan From the Meiji to Early Showa Periods
HAYASHI Junpei
- (3) The Introduction and Discontinuation of Vocational Education in Prewar Japan’s Middle School Supplementary Courses:
An Examination of the Vocational Supplementary Course at Chiba Middle School
YOSHINO Takehiro
- (4) The Establishment of the Vocational Supplementary School in Ayama County,
Mie Prefecture
SUGIURA Yukari
- (5) The Intentionality of History Education in Okinawa During the Early U.S. Occupation According to Okinawa Rekishi Sanko Shiryō
HAGIWARA Mami
- (6) The Historical Basis of the U.S. Occupation’s English Education Policy in Japan:
The Rockefeller Foundation’s Supporting Activities
HIROKAWA Yoshiko
- (7) A Reconsideration of “Educatio”: Focusing on Comenius (1592-1670)
OTA Koichi

II Program of the 58th Annual Meeting
The relevance of research in history of education:
How can it influence actual school practices?

III Book Reviews

IV Book Notes